THE MUSIC OF THE RAIN. BY ABBE KINNE.

Falling, falling, on the house-tops,
With a music quaint and rare,
Like the sound of human heart-throb
On the silent midnight air,
Or the tears of angels miling
When they weep with those who w
Or the luiluby of mothers
When they rock their babes to sleep

Like the drowsy wine of popples.
With its weird enchanting power,
Coming to the weary listener
Like the dew to drooping flower;
Like calm sleep to those who suffer,
Or the tears to those who mourn;
Like remembered words of loved one
From our aching bosoms torn.

Strangely sweet, bewitching music, All enthrilled my senses lie, As I watch the mystic Future With the shadowy Past go by, While a caim and holy quiet Steals upon my heart and brain, Then I fall asleep, still listening To the murmur of the rain. So, mayhap, sometime hereafter
I may lay me down to rest,
Overweary, and shall listen
For the music I love best;
When the gentle cadence fading
Through the midnight silence deep
Softly soothes my troubled spirit,
While it luils me into sleep.

When at last, my soul has fallen
Into sweetest, glad repose,
That on earth sunshine nor shadow
No awakening ever knows—
Like the voice of waiting angels,
Or the vesper bells in toll,
May the softly falling rain-drops
Chant a requiem for my soul.
